CITY COUNCIL MEETING OF: AUGUST 19, 2009

Minutes:

BILL ARENT, Acting Director of the Office of Business Development, explained that the City has continued to work diligently with this developer due to the frozen nature of the capital and credit markets. Changes within the proposed Amendment to the Disposition and Development Agreement (DDA) with Heritage-Nevada, LLC, include extension of the close of escrow to August 31, 2015 with two six-month extensions. Also, the developer will have the option, but not the obligation, to revise the scope of the project. The scope must remain in conformance with the Symphony Park Master Plan. The City, through City Parkway V, Inc., will have the ability to terminate this agreement and refund the deposit to the developer if another developer steps forward. If the City exercises that right, Heritage-Nevada, Inc., would have the right to submit an exclusive negotiating agreement to the City for another parcel within Symphony Park.

RITA BRANDIN, Newland Communities, noted that Heritage International and the World Jewelry Center was the first development agreement approved by the Council for Symphony Park. ROBERT ZARNEGIN, World Jewelry Center, and his staff have been working very closely with Newland Communities and the City on this amendment and this extension will allow the developer to reevaluate the project while credit markets return to normal.

MR. ZARNEGIN stated this amendment reflects the current economic climate and the lack of commercially viable financing. He expressed his commitment to moving forward when the market recovers, noting that he has invested significantly in this project. He thanked the Mayor and Council for their continued support and he also thanked staff and MS. BRANDIN for their assistance and continued cooperation on this project.

MAYOR GOODMAN stated the World Jewelry Center would help diversify the City' economy and he encouraged MR. ZARNEGIN to maintain the scope and vision of the project. MR. ZARNEGIN thanked MAYOR GOODMAN for his comments and suggested that market conditions would ultimately dictate the finished project.

MS. BRANDIN noted that a key negotiation in this extension was the process for proposing an alternative project and pointed out that any new project would need approval from the Planning Commission and the Council.

COUNCILMAN BARLOW congratulated MR. ZARNEGIN on the birth of his daughter and expressed his hope that this development would come out of the ground when the economy recovers. He also thanked MS. BRANDIN for her hard work on this item.
